

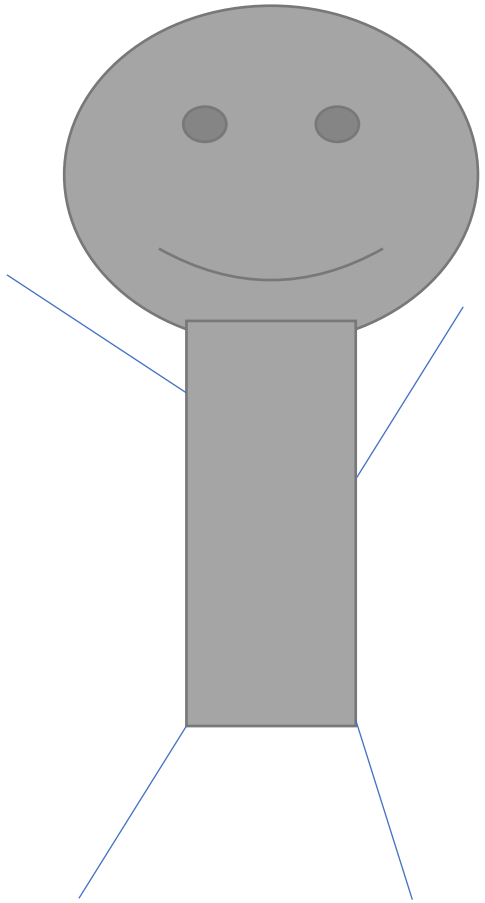
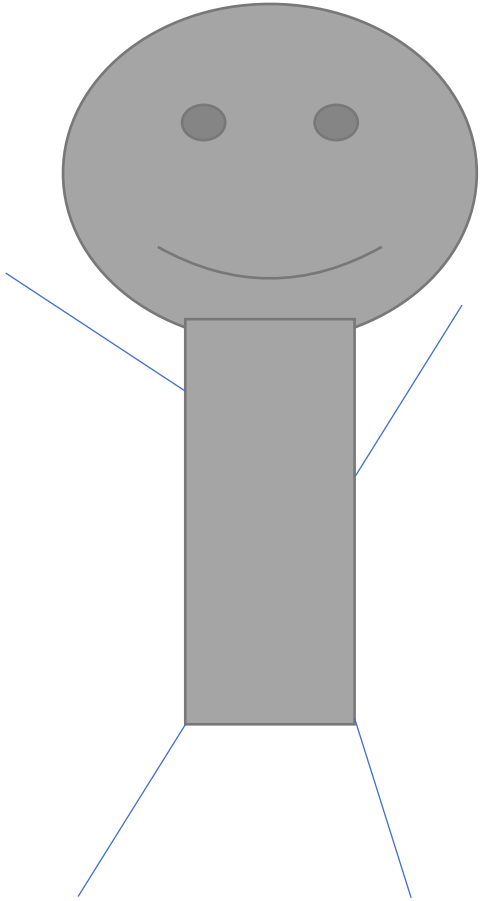
James martin is an Scottish man that just moved into the Midwest united states. He is hungry

He orders some food but the worker does not understand him





Luckily he used our new app to translate for him and got his food